The Australian Almond Conference in Adelaide from October 2-4 this year promises a program full of engaging subject matter that showcases the challenges and opportunities the industry faces on farm and beyond.

The biennial event will attempt to tackle the opportunities looming to future proof the industry and gain access to some of the most astute almond minds in the world.

There will subject matter for growers big and small and speakers along with a trade exhibition area featuring new technology to help growers do more with less.

The design of conference is specifically tailored to ensure trade exhibitors and sponsors gain maximum access to delegates. We are back in the same location at the Adelaide Convention Centre with two speaking forums at each end of the trade exhibition area and hospitality hub.

Instead of keeping all things separate the aim is to immerse suppliers and growers in the one environment so everyone gets the opportunity look, listen and learn.

There is no glossing over the fact that many growers (and suppliers) have experienced tough times since our last conference and this year's program will tackle issues like pollination, water efficiency, disease and pest management, dieback, new varieties and autonomous machinery. Our conference will also utilise Slido app to ensure all delegates can interact with presenters and get the answers they want to their specific problems.

For those new to the industry, it is one stop shop to upgrade knowledge and build a support network.

Since our last conference, we have seen:

- Australian production continue to grow
- Almond sales exceed annual production
- After two tough years, global pricing has started to improve
- Investment in new Australian orchards continues unabated
- Our revised tonnage timeline push toward 200,000 tonnes by 2028

- India re-emerges as one of our biggest customers due to a new trade agreement
- Orchards embrace autonomous machinery to cut costs
- Renewed interest in self fertile varieties and higher density plantings
- Pollination costs skyrocket
- Sustainability credentials emerge as a fact of life in agriculture
- Drying and effective on-farm storage a key focus

Despite all the challenges we have faced, Australian almonds continue to emerge as a powerhouse industry that has attracted significant investment.

The ABA, in conjunction with Hort Innovation, has almost 30 research and development programs dedicated to addressing key issues on farm, doing more with less and promoting the benefits of consuming a handful of almonds every day.

The aim of the Conference in 2024 will be bringing together as many stakeholders as possible by delivering a Conference program that educates, facilitates, collaborates and celebrates on issues throughout the supply chain.

We will again run the alternative spouses tour to the McLaren Vale winery region on day two and our Wednesday-Friday fixturing leads straight into the October long weekend. It is recognition that growing almonds is a partnership that starts at home and the Conference should be an event that has something for everyone.

We will also celebrate those that have contributed significantly to the industry and have an entertaining program lined up for our Gala Dinner at the Convention Centre.

We would look forward to seeing you there and trust the event represents the value deserved of your sponsorship.

CEO
